OVERVIEW

Monique Waterman is an Associate in McDonald Hopkins' Litigation Department. She focuses her practice on complex commercial litigation and general litigation matters covering a variety of legal and business disputes. Monique has experience advising, negotiating settlements, and developing defense strategies for a broad range of clients. She previously served as an associate attorney at a large defense firm with specific expertise in first-party insurance litigation. In addition, Monique served as an associate attorney at a smaller firm where she represented hospitals and healthcare providers in overturning wrongful insurance denials.

Monique earned her J.D. from Nova Southeastern University, Shepard Broad College of Law and her B.A. from Florida Atlantic University.
